

Samoliński Bolesław (1956) – MD, PhD, specialist in Public Health, ENT, Allergology.

Present position: Professor, expert of Polish Parliament; Chairman of the National Council of Senior's Policy, Head of the Coalition on Healthy Aging in Poland, Dean of Postgraduate Medical Centre in Warsaw Medical University (WMU); Head of the Department of the Prevention of Environmental Hazards and Allergology; Head and Allergology and Clinical Immunology; Member of the Scientific Council of the National Institute of Public Health – and Polish Mother's Memorial Hospital Research Institute, member of planning group of Global Alliance against Chronic Respiratory Diseases WHO.

Past: National Consultant for Public Health (2012-2014); President of the Polish Society of Allergology (2012-2015). Chairman of the Committee on Priorities of Public Health during the Polish Presidency of the EU Council; V-ce president of GA2LEN Executive Committee; President of the Polish Association "Civilisation Hazards and Public Health"(2007-2011), deputy President of the Polish Environmental Medicine Society (2007 -2009), Director of the Central Teaching Hospital WMU (2001-2002), Scientific Director of the Rheumatology Institute (2010-2011), Vice Dean for the Public Health Division (2002-2008), Chief of Political Cabinet of Minister of Health (2002-2003); Director of the University Environmental Health Centre WMU (2009- 2012).